Firefighters Finally Check Forest Blaze

Foresters and volunteer firemen in the Pocono mountain region late yesterday succeeded in checking a forest fire which had raged for nearly 30 hours over an estimated 900 acres of mountain brush and timberland in Barrett and Paradise townships.

More than 200 men battled the flames Wednesday, all through the night, and again yesterday before the stubborn fire was beaten down with the aid of bulldozers and other forest fire equipment.

The fire was first reported shortly after 1 p. m. Wednesday when it broke out in the bank near the Lackawanna R.R. station at Cresco. Helped by late rising gusts of wind, it spread rapidly in a southeasterly direction, burning a path four miles long and clouding the skies with a thick, black smoke that was visible from adjacent counties.

Firemen from Barrett township, Buck Hill Falls, Mount Pocono, Pocono and Stroud townships and Marshalls Creek aided foresters in the fight to check the Cresco fire and a smaller but equally as serious blaze which was snuffed out north of Anolomink on Wednesday night.

The larger fire kept many of the firemen in the Barrett area until they were relieved by replacements in the early morning.

District Forester E. Clyde Pyle, who flew over the smoke-covered mountain tract early yesterday, directed the operations in the field.

He said last night that forestry patrols would be maintained along the burned tract all night long to guard against a fresh outbreak. Similar patrols had covered the Anolomink-Wooddale area on Wednesday night after that fire was extinguished.

Robert L. Pierce, assistant district forester, said bulldozers circled the fringe areas yesterday, digging wide furrows and taking down small trees and brush near the advancing flames.

When he returned to his office in Stroudsburg, Pyle estimated that 75 per cent of the acreage burned in Barrett and Price townships on both days was in brush growth or scrub oak. Only the southeastern end jumped the Lackawanna tracks and hit good timber, he said.

Fire companies at Buck Hill, Cresco and Mount Pocono moved their trucks and equipment closer to the dwelling areas as the fire continued, and standby crews were posted with each vehicle.

Buck Hill, incidentally, was four or five air miles south of the burning area.

Shortly after midnight yesterday, the fire reached the section east of the railroad tracks near Henryville, and later the flames crossed the tracks and burned in the cranberry section of Paradise Valley.

Camp Eden, a small camp in that section, was threatened when the fire crept to within five feet of several of the buildings before it was checked.

No homes were endangered, but the flames were close to the Sanford Henry barn and the Walter DePue farm near Henry's Crossing.

During another phase of the fire fighting, sections in back of the Maple Lawn and the Pocono Mountain inn were burned.

Skelton Signs Contract For $10 Millions

Hollywood, (AP) — A soap company agreed yesterday to pay funnymen Richard (Red) Skelton more than $1,000,000 a year for performing on radio and television.

Under the deal, Skelton, one of the few top comedians not yet on TV, will launch a weekly show over NBC next October. He will also continue with his radio show.

Red's manager, Bo Roos, said the contract with Procter and Gamble runs seven years, has no options and should return the comic "between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000."

Roos said he believes it to be the most lucrative contract of its type ever signed. Skelton will derive additional revenue from movies, records and personal appearances, he said.

Strongest Weapon

New York, (AP) — The strongest weapon in the Soviet arsenal is the tendency of free people to drop their arms and become sitting ducks when they think they are in no danger, New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said yesterday.

Army Policeman Slain; Russians Escape Capture

Vienna, Austria, Friday (AP) — An American military policeman was killed early today by a burst of fire from tommyguns wielded by two Russian soldiers in the heart of Vienna.

United States Army police headquarters identified the American as Cpl. Paul Gresens (home town unavailable).

Deer Might Have Spread Woods Fire

Cresco — A frightened deer, trapped in the flames which burned over more than 900 acres of forest land near here yesterday and Wednesday, may have helped spread the 30-hour fire.

According to report, residents of the Cresco area where the fire broke out on a bank near the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western station, saw the deer charge out of burning brush and head deeper into the woods with his coat burning as he ran.

District Forester E. Clyde Pyle said last night that one of his inspectors on duty at the Barrett fire scene reported the incident to him.

Pyle acknowledged that he has never before heard of instances where burning deer have spread fires, but he said there have been situations where rabbits, with their fur afire have run out of the flames to spread the fire in nearby leaves and undergrowth.

He added, pointing out that the herd is now changing coat and most of the bucks and does have a long, shaggy fur at this time of year.

Firemen appeared certain last night that the fire started near the Cresco station, then spread to the woods.

There were several reports that the sparks came from a steam locomotive used to haul a work train to Cresco from Seranton, but others discounted this theory, noting that the fire originated on the bank on the side opposite the point from where steam locomotive sparks would normally fall.

Tank Raiders Plunge Into Red Outposts

Tokyo, Friday, (AP) — American tank raiders plunged into Red lines 11 miles north of Seoul yesterday on aggressive patrols that scattered or destroyed small offensive outpost forces around the capital.

Total Red casualties for yesterday on the whole Korean warfront were estimated by the Eighth Army at 1,740 killed and wounded and 75 taken prisoner.

One tank-infantry team entered Uijongbu at the 11-mile stone for the deepest penetration of Communist lines since the Red spring offensive was jolted to a halt by Allied big guns and air power before May day.

Reds at Uijongbu met the tanks with small-arms fire and then broke and ran when the tankers opened up with machine-guns and 90-mm rifles.

After the raids there and to the northeast and northwest the tanks pulled back for the night inside the defenses around Seoul.

A tank patrol east-northeast of Seoul killed an estimated 200 men of a Chinese regiment in a two-hour fight and brought back 21 prisoners. A third force salvaged two abandoned Allied tanks southwest of Uijongbu.

Tank patrols ranging northeast of Seoul shot up two Red groups. They reported encircling one company and cutting it to pieces.

No Reds were found by tanks prowling on the northeast front and down to the Han river at the place where a small Communist force a few days ago fired mortar shells across into Allied lines.

On the central front, 75 Chinese were reported killed in a skirmish south of Kapyong and below the Seoul-Chunchon highway.

Senate Snubs Open Hearings

Washington, (AP) — Republicans demanding open hearings in the MacArthur investigation lost another round late yesterday, when the Senate recessed without taking a vote on their proposal.

The vote to recess until noon today was 42 to 39, almost exactly along party lines.

Earlier yesterday, in an angry session, senators slugged each other verbally in the argument over public-closed hearings in the MacArthur inquiry.

Senator Kerr (D-Okla.), critic of General MacArthur, pitched into Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), who demanded wide open hearings. Kerr said on the Senate floor that he wondered whether Ferguson was trying to "make it easier" for information "to reach the enemy."

Ferguson interpreted this to mean he was being accused of wanting to give aid and comfort to the enemy. Any such charge was an "absolute falsehood," he cried.

Enlisted Reserves To Be Released

Washington (AP) — Enlisted reservists now serving with the military forces will be released "as soon as practicable," the Department of Defense said yesterday.

The announced plans call for the Air Force to start almost immediately, to be followed by the Marine Corps in June and the Navy in July, and the Army by next September. Priority will be given to World War Two veterans.

Mr. Truman Confident Of Vindication

Washington (AP) — A bristling President Truman said in short, barbed sentences yesterday that when all the facts are in, they will show he was right in firing Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

He said MacArthur persuaded him at their Wake Island conference last October that the Chinese Communists would not come into the Korean war.

And, by implication, he challenged MacArthur's statement to Senate investigators that the Central Intelligence Agency reported in November that there was "very little chance" of Chinese Red intervention. It was in early November that the Reds did strike.

Mr. Truman told a news conference the CIA, top-level intelligence unit, made no such report to him—and he said the CIA reports to him daily and he reads its reports.

Besides, the President said, MacArthur wouldn't let the CIA operate under his command until Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, head of the agency, made a special trip to Japan recently and persuaded MacArthur to let it operate.

As for MacArthur's statement to the senators yesterday that he doesn't think Russia is in any position to launch a "predatory attack from the Asiatic Continent," the President said all he knew about that was what had been in the papers.

Mr. Truman answered—or parried—a heavy barrage of questions from reporters while MacArthur was voicing other views in a closed Senate hearing some 16 blocks away.

An edge to the President's voice, a tight-lipped terseness in his comments, indicated he was thoroughly conscious of the dramatic conflict that was reaching its height in Washington yesterday. Mr. Truman made it plain he expected the Senate hearings would give the verdict to him.

Apart from the MacArthur controversy, the President:

One—Said Ambassador William O'Dwyer has his confidence, despite the Senate Crime committee's report that O'Dwyer allowed crime to flourish while mayor of New York. He said he doesn't plan to fire O'Dwyer and doubts if the ambassador to Mexico—a fighter, like himself, the President said—will resign.

Two—Disclosed that he personally approved the beef price control order issued last week.

MacArthur Fears HST's Policy Invites New War

Washington (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur warned yesterday that unless Red China is beaten into surrender by all-out air attacks the Korean conflict may explode into a third world war.

He told senators the course being followed by the Truman administration may be "inviting" another war rather than avoiding it. And he strongly urged the use of air power, a naval blockade of the China coast, and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops.

Calling the Korean war a "dreadful conflict" which is costing too much in American blood, he lined up directly against President Truman's policy of trying to limit the war to Korea.

MacArthur charged also that President Truman "jeopardized" the national security by summarily firing him at a time when his replacement, Gen. Matthew Ridgway, was at the Korean front 350 miles away from Tokyo headquarters.

The general's testimony to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees was behind closed doors but the text, censored in spots, was made public.

Republicans continued to press for open hearings, declaring the people had a right to all the facts. Senator Russell (D-Ga.), presiding, replied that public hearings would endanger secret military codes.

He told reporters yesterday's hearings included exact texts of messages read by MacArthur which involved the most secret codes, developed after 16 years. By censoring the testimony before making it public, he said, it was possible to prevent any enemy from breaking the codes.

Russell said Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had expressed "concern" that some material involving codes had got into the committee records.

MacArthur laid stress on his view that the Truman policies would be more likely to bring on a world war than the plan he advocated.

"I believe," he said, "the chances of the terrible conflict you so rightfully dread—and all of the rest of us dread with you—would be more probable if we practice appeasement in one area."

It was a bare-knuckle attack on the administration all the way. And the general said thousands of Americans will be killed each month unless Red China is strangled by air and sea power.

He told senators there is no end in sight to the blood-letting in Korea because the government has no policy or plan.

"I suggest," he said, "that some plan be carried out that will bring this dreadful slaughter to a definite end—that we shall not continue to buy time by sacrificing thousands of American boys every month."

MacArthur declared the Chinese Reds could be beaten into surrender, by all-out air attacks, Naval blockade and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops. He said he did not believe these moves would draw Russia into the fight—and that "you have to take a certain degree of risk in these things, one way or another."

The Truman administration has rejected his proposals, expressing fear they would lead to World War Three. But MacArthur took the position that Russia was in no shape to launch all-out war in Asia, and that the administration course is one of "appeasement."

His dramatic appeal came at the conclusion of more than six hours of testimony behind closed doors with the Senate committees.

He began testifying at 10:30 a. m. and except for a brief lunch period talked steadily until 6:15 p. m. He agreed to return today at 10:30 a. m. for further testimony.

MacArthur told the senators: "The worst thing we can do (in Korea) is to go on indecisively sacrificing these men, with no definite end in sight."

He laid down three possible courses to follow: "Either to pursue it to victory; to surrender to the enemy and end it on his terms; or, what I think is the worst of all choices—to go on indefinitely and indefinitely, neither to win or lose, in that stalemate."

He said the latter course will mean "these losses are going to mount up to figures which would stagger the imagination."

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) bluntly told MacArthur he had been wrong in his belief the Chinese would not enter the Korean war. And the senator suggested MacArthur might be wrong this time in believing Soviet Russia would not enter the war if U. S. forces attack Red China.

MacArthur conceded anybody could be wrong about such matters, but declared there was no doubt whatever about the carnage that would result if the present Korean policies go on.

"The war in Korea has already almost destroyed that nation of 20 million people. I have never seen such devastation."

"I have seen, I guess, as much blood and disaster as any living man, and it just curdled my stomach, the last time I was there. After I looked at the wreckage and those thousands of women and children and everything, I vomited."

"Now, are you going to let that go on, by any sophistry of reasoning?"

"What are you going to do? Once more, I repeat the question, what is the policy in Korea?"

As McMahon, an administration supporter, continued to question him, MacArthur declared:

"Your entire drift has been not to do anything, just keep on fighting, losing and bleeding there. I think we should make some extraordinary effort to bring it to an end."

MacArthur did most of the talking throughout the day and he pulled no punches in wading into the administration. He said President Truman "jeopardized" the nation's security by firing him from his Far Eastern commands.

He conceded the President had a right to oust him. But he protested he was forced "summarily" to turn over his job to Gen. Matthew Ridgway "who was 350 miles away on the Korean front."

"I don't think there is any question that the interest of the United States was jeopardized in such a summary mode of turning over great responsibilities which involve the security of the country."

This was a sudden and hard-hitting attack in sharp contrast to the general's previous restrained statements on his dismissal and the dispute with Mr. Truman over Asian policy.

Urging stronger measures against Red China than the President has been willing to sanction, MacArthur declared the great problem is "to stop this sacrifice of American blood that has not got any definite end to it, as I see it."

If the present policies continue in Korea, he said, "you are going to have thousands and thousands and thousands of American lives that will fall."

"And in my own opinion events finally will catch up with you, so that you will have to stop it some way. And then the great question is—where does the responsibility of that blood rest?"

"This I am quite sure—it is not going to rest on my shoulders."

The Weather

House Coalition Seeks To Force Acheson Ouster

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson's foes in the House are whipping up a plan to force him out of office by shutting off his salary after June 30.

They might be able to do this by refusing to vote an appropriation to pay him—or even to hold up funds for the entire State department so long as Acheson stays in office.

Rep. Arends of Illinois, the Republican whip, said yesterday he is sure such a move will develop.

A number of southern Democrats are ready to give any Republican oust-Acheson move their enthusiastic support.

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) told a reporter that denying funds to Acheson "will cut the ground from under him and he will have to quit or President Truman will have to fire him."

A one-time high school principal, lawyer and governor, Brewster was named to fill the place left vacant by the death of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

Fires Under Control

Boston (AP) — Woodland fires, spurred in their flaming destruction by high spring winds, were under control last night after blackening thousands of acres in New England, New York and New Jersey. A constant alert was being kept, however, as woodlands are tinder dry and there is no rain in sight.

College Host At Conference Of Teachers

High school English and speech teachers from the area surrounding East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will convene on the east borough college campus tomorrow as the English and speech departments of the institution conduct their first annual conference.

The program will include several panel debates in which several local educators and members of the college faculty participate.

Dr. Michael B. Gilligan, dean of the New Jersey State Teachers College at Jersey City, a former English teacher and an alumnus of East Stroudsburg Teachers, will be the principal speaker.

Ralph Bender, of the English department at East Stroudsburg High, will be one of a group of teachers participating in a forum concerned with the idea of vitalizing high school composition.

Mrs. Kathleen Butz, another member of the East Stroudsburg High English staff, will be one of a group participating in a discussion devoted to the special techniques which should be used with articulatory cases.

Dr. T. Edward Terrill, head of the college English department, who with Miss Katherine McFarland, head of the speech department, is co-sponsoring the Saturday conference, said last night "that we hope to have it as an annual affair." He added that it's a good means by which "we may become acquainted with the teachers in our service area."

The conference will open at 9 a. m. with registration in the auditorium at the college until 10. There will also be book exhibits by the various educational text publishers, and tours of interest about the campus.

A morning panel forum on the subject "What Can We Do To Provide the Proper Classroom Climate for the Articulatory Cases?" will be followed by a lunch in the college dining room.

The afternoon session will feature the second panel forum on articulation and the address by Dr. Gilligan, the alumnus dean of the New Jersey college. His remarks, scheduled for 2:30 p. m., will be followed by an open discussion period.

The college speech department will present a one-act play, "Riders to the Sea," by John Synge.

The play will be in the college auditorium, but the various panel discussions will take place in several classrooms at the training school.

Two Producers Cut Price Of Nylon Hosiery

New York, (AP) — Two New York producers are cutting prices of nylon stockings this week.

But other industry leaders denied lower price tags are in prospect.

Phillip Goldsmith, president of Diamond Full Fashioned Hosiery Co., yesterday announced a cut of $1 a dozen, wholesale, on the company's fruit of the loom seamless 15 denier, 400-needle micro-film sheer hose, retroactive to April 1. Retail prices will be reduced from $1.19 to 99 cents a pair.

Price cuts ranging from 50 cents to $1.05 a dozen, wholesale (and from 10 to 20 cents a pair retail) were put into effect earlier in the week by Majud Mills on three of its styles. Other big hosiery mills in the New York area gave no indication they intend to follow suit.

At the Atlantic City, N. J., convention of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, Earl Constantine, president, said general price reductions are "inconceivable."

Some trade sources said today a softening in the market could be expected in view of scarce buying in January and February.

As for the future, one prominent manufacturer said much will depend on the new government price ceilings due to be announced late this month. Major rollbacks are not likely, he said, because nylon fabrics and nylon products have not kept pace with the general upturn in prices since Korea.

It Wasn't Wolf Whistle She Heard -- Only A Bird

New York, (AP) — As brunette secretary Dorothy Campbell put it:

"I don't go around assuming men are whistling at me. But I defy you to ignore it for three weeks."

So yesterday she called the cops.

They went to her 57th St. office and, sure enough, it wasn't long before they, too, heard the wolf whistle, a lusty, suggestive "whee-wheo."

The police started a house to house search that led them to the nearby apartment of explorer Carveth Wells. There they found the masker — a black-feathered talking myna bird named "Raffles."

Mrs. Wells said her husband taught the bird to whistle at pretty girls as an act.

"In a very seductive voice,"

The Taxpayers' Case

The Federal Government's civil service employees want a pay raise, and there's strong sentiment in Congress for granting it.

The cost of living has climbed far since they got their last increase—averaging about $110 a year—in October, 1949.

Congressman Tom Murray, Tennessee Democrat, chairman of the House Civil Service Committee, favors a boost of $300 to $400 a year. The Government's Economic Stabilization Agency has no objection if the new raise doesn't exceed the 10 per cent above January, 1950, levels which national wage policy allows for workers in private industry.

So the Federal employees have a persuasive case. But the case of the taxpayers also deserves consideration. They want to be fair to the Government employees, but they would like to see more evidence of a real effort by the Government to hold down the number of people on its payroll.

When the Korean War began last June there were about two million employees in the Government's executive branch. By February there were 2,308,000 according to the Civil Service Commission's latest figures. That was an increase of 66,424 since the month before and there is every indication of continuing growth.

Much of it, of course, is the defense and mobilization agencies. But the commission says that more than half of all executive-branch agencies had more civilian employees in February than in January.

It's proper for Congress to consider whether Federal employees are underpaid. But it's equally important for Congress to find out whether many Federal departments and agencies aren't grossly overstaffed and to insist on holding down and cutting back unjustified payroll expansion.

Trucks, Roads And Rails

Almost always present in the growing battle between road engineers, who are trying to save their highways, and the big trucks, which pound the highways, are the railroad interests.

The rails and the trucks are natural competitors. This is fine for the shippers and receivers of freight. It is as it should be—and all to the good. But the rails have little place in the issues resulting from big truck use of the public highways.

Big trucks will continue to use the public highways until some other competitor takes over the transportation field—if ever. There will be no such thing as running the trucks off the highways. And nobody in his right mind would dream of such a proposal.

The big truck problem is a public issue. It is a question of how far the public should go in paying for highways which the trucks use for commercial purposes.

A question of fair contributions toward highway costs by the trucking industry. A question of rules to protect the highways we have—and to develop newer and sturdier highways to accommodate increasing traffic of all kinds.

It's a question of punishing the big trucks which persistently violate the laws fixing weight limits, speed and size.

It's a question of public policy—to be decided by the elected representatives of the people in the interest of the whole population. And not by the warring lobbies speaking for the railroads or for the big trucks.

But if the problem is to be complicated by the war between the rails and the trucks, it never will be adjusted on its merits.

There are more than 738 miles of subway and elevated track in New York City.

New York is sued more than any other city.

Editor Saxe Commins prevailed upon the beautiful new telephone operator to be his guest at luncheon, but when she returned she confided to a sidekick, "That's the last time I ever go out with an editor. He blue-penciled three-fourths of my order!"

Next door to the John Dos Passos home on the waterfront at Provincetown, there lived last summer a family that included three little girls. The middle one told visitors proudly, "My older sister is only an even seven, and my younger sister is only an even two, but I am four and a half."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Remember the old song about the moon shining to-night on pretty Redwing, who's weeping her heart away? Well, Redwing was a Chickasaw Indian, and her grandson, Rod Redwing, is in the movies. He's an actor and a fast-on-the-draw gun expert.

In fact, Rod, who's lithe, swarthy, and much younger-looking than 46, says modestly he's probably as fast as any man in the world. Oldtime outlaws like Billy the Kid couldn't draw their 45's and fire in less than a second, says Rod, who's studied the subject.

He showed me a strip of movie film to prove he can drop a 50-cent piece with his right hand . . . draw with the same hand . . . and shoot down the coin at waist level—all in 2/10 of a second.

Shucks, though, that's nothing. He vowed that he has stood 20 feet from a wall . . . thrown a hunting knife at the wall . . . drawn his gun with the same hand . . . and blasted a bullet hole in the wall—while holding the knife then hit. Not every time, though. He said he succeeded eight times out of 115 tries.

I found Rod on the set of the Marlene Dietrich western, "Chuck-a-Luck," in which he has a part. He's also the technical adviser who taught Mel Ferrer and Arthur Kennedy the fast draw. He has given the same coaching in the past to Wayne Morris, Edmond O'Brien, Glenn Ford, and Duncan ("Circo Kid") Denardo. In other pictures, the chest-to-knees close-ups of a fast draw have been Redwing, doubling for hero or heavy.

He's a fascinating fellow, half Chickasaw and half Hindu. His India-born, Brahman father was a mind-reader on the Keith vaudeville circuit. His Mississippi-born mother operated beauty parlors with her sisters in New York. There she met and married "Prince Rajpurkail." Rod's original name was Rodric Ashmed Tokaji Hoker Kar Rajpurkail. At N. Y. U. friends simplified it to Focus Focus, so he changed it to Rodric Redwing.

In the theater he appeared with Katharine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady." DeMille brought him here in 1930 to play Lupe Velez's brother in a third version of "The Squaw Man." All told he has appeared in some 300 pictures.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Kohlberg Asks a Question
Alfred Kohlberg has a wicked, almost a sardonic sense of humor. He is the China lobby that the State Department talks so much about. But he is not registered as a lobbyist because he represents only himself, American citizen and merchant, who gives of his time and money to good causes, one of them being a constant fight against Communism.

So, Kohlberg noticed that the large foundations, looking for ways to expend inherited money, have been setting up institutes and such in our universities with the object of fixing it so that Americans will understand the Russians. He had not noticed that anybody was spending a dime on getting the Russians to understand the Americans. Apparently, that is unnecessary as Americans need not be understood by anybody. In fact, nobody is making any particularly significant effort in that direction.

So, Kohlberg got the idea that he might go to Russia to see for himself, and also maybe to tell a couple of Russians what goes on here in the United States. Having no official position, being just a little American who pays his taxes and votes at elections, Kohlberg applied to the Russian embassy for a blank on which to apply for a visa to the Soviet Union.

He got an answer, which I herewith quote in full:
"Dear Sir:
Your letter regarding your trip to the Soviet Union has been received. Although we comprehend the importance of this visit we regret to inform you that we are not in a position to assist you in this matter. Persons desiring to visit our country for private purposes have normally to enter the Soviet Union as tourists through the travel agency 'Intourist.' During the war this organization discontinued its work and has not resumed it up to the present time. Thus your trip to the Soviet Union will become possible after the Intourist agency resumes its functions."

Very truly yours,
S. SAVCHENKO
N. SAVCHENKO

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington—Senate critics of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's military prowess in Korea have taken great delight in commenting on the winter retreat of U. S. forces when the Chinese Communists launched an offensive.

Senator Robert Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat, known as a big oil and gas man as well as a poker-playing crony of President Truman's, has jabbed at the general consistently over this issue.

Naturally the British and Indian governments started the propaganda that the general had erred in crossing the 38th parallel in pursuit of the North Korean Communists in November, 1950. Our own State department has done nothing to stem this criticism, although Secretary of State Dean Acheson had the facts to refute the criticism. But you know how he is when British or Indian diplomats start talking.

The basic charge is that Gen. MacArthur "incited" the Chinese Communists into the war against the wishes of the United Nations. The general's critics are all ready to unload on him when he appears before the State Armed Services committee. They ought to look before they leap.

A State department bulletin, published with the approval of Acheson but largely ignored by him since the MacArthur firing, contains a United Nations summation of the November attack and December retreat. It not only approves what Gen. MacArthur did, but in the process pulls the plug on the Acheson-Truman fiction that we can't bomb Manchurian bases for fear the Chinese Reds will get sore.

"No North Korean forces were employed in the massive enemy attack; it was an exclusively Chinese operation," the State department's forgotten reprint of the United Nations report reveals.

Those who criticize the general, and his supporters, may not realize how effectively they are supporting Communist propagandists. Here is what the United Nations battle report has to say about this:

"Objective appraisal of events bearing upon the United Nations military effort in Korea is essential if future plans and operations are to be in consonance with reality. The full import of the changed situation became evident during the period covered by this report, wherein interrogation of newly captured Chinese Communist prisoners of war has revealed both the extent of the participation of this new enemy and his basic intentions."

"There is thus left no doubt that it has long been the plan of the Chinese Communist authorities to commit so much of their war resources in manpower and material as necessary to insure destruction of the United Nations command."

"Our general attack of 24 November threw the surreptitious Chinese Communist buildup operations of balance and premature exposure of the decision of the Chinese Communist authorities to intervene—a decision not openly announced nor previously brought to light through political intelligence."

"That ought to put to rest the minority yapping at the general's heels about the value of his November offensive. It pulled the plug on Communist planning. His critics call it a 'disaster.'"

Here is what the UN report has to say about that:
"Communist centers of the world have sought to propagandize the thought that our tactical operations initiated on 24 November resulted in the United Nations command being completely shattered. They have sought to create the illusion of a major tactical disaster. All of this is pure nonsense."

If it is nonsense for the Communist propagandists, it is equally nonsensical and damaging for Kerr, the British, Indians and the State Department to so label the military action.

Then Mr. Boy Friend says to his gal: 'Hell, I can sing better'n him—can't I, honey?'"

In case you worry too much about what Stalin is going to do to us, or President Truman or that fellow Mao over there in China—did you ever know that it took 350 million years to make that little lump of coal in your seat?

We have just returned from a 2,300-mile trip through eleven states.

We have seen much, learned a lot, become "broadened" in more ways than one, and appreciate our own home and our own part of the country more than ever before.

But one of the things that stands out in my mind after the trip—and after every trip—is the foolishness of worrying about our little selves, our little period on this earth, our complete insignificance in the enormous vastness and eternity of Nature.

We stopped off at the Fort Bedford Inn located near one of the entrances to the Pennsylvania Turnpike, that wonderful highway which surely is a great testimony to the ingenuity of Man.

The manager gave me a book by Penelope Redd Jones, called "The Story of the Pennsylvania Turnpike."

To me—and to the great majority of travelers—that turnpike was primarily a great highway over which you could travel at seventy miles an hour, and more if no policeman was looking.

But, after reading that book, it is no longer a testimonial to the ingenuity of man, but rather to his comparative insignificance, no matter how grandiose his achievements may be.

From Man's point of view the Turnpike is a marvelous engineering feat. There is a whole page

As there is no Intourist agency, nobody can go to Russia except an official. Now, all these people who say there is no iron curtain have been made liars by Mr. N. Savchenko, who says there is one. It was pulled down for Americans when the Intourist travel agency left the United States.

Incidentally, that is a new dodge in international relations, the use of a travel agency to control the visits to a country. Soon, nobody will be able to visit China because there is no Chinese travel agency here, or Poland or Czechoslovakia for the same reason.

Kohlberg thinks the Russians are hard to understand. I do not think so. They do things simply. It is their simplicity which is confusing.

For instance, take their war in Korea. They direct it. They provide the arms, munitions and experts. They arrange for the Chinese to come in after the Koreans are defeated, and for the Mongols and Burians to come in after the Chinese are defeated. But Russian troops stay out. Therefore, the Russians are not in the war and Americans are warmongers. Nothing could be simpler.

Had we used Chiang Kai-Shek's army of 600,000 as they used Mao Tze-Tung's army, we would have been able to say that we are not at war but Chiang Kai-Shek is at war. Could anything be simpler?

Similarly, the Russians wanted to get rid of MacArthur. Did they do anything about it? Not at all. That would have been too obvious. They stirred up the Indians, who stirred up the British. The Indians made an issue of MacArthur, and the British did not want to offend the Indians as Lewis Douglas told us at the Associated Press luncheon. He seemed to think that nothing mattered but keeping India in the British commonwealth, not even our more than 10,500 dead sons. So the British put the pressure on Acheson who put it on Marshall who put it on Truman who gave MacArthur the skirts.

Could anything be simpler than that? Russians are not hard to understand. Anyone who has had a smart small girl in his household who knows how to play daddy off against mamma ought to be able to understand a Russian. It is as childish as that—but it always works because papa loves Baby Snooks!

any idea why his records were so popular . . . Tubbs explained: "Well, it's psychology. Nearly every tavern has a jukebox and nearly every juke has me singing on it. A boy walks in with his best gal—and punches down one of my records, like your song, 'You Don't Have to Be a Baby to Cry.' He sings along with me for a few bars. Then Mr. Boy Friend says to his gal: 'Hell, I can sing better'n him—can't I, honey?'"

There were only ten entries that year," we corrected him.

"There were 32 the way I seen it," he insisted, "and when you got that many skinkers in a Derby you got a big field. The horses kept spinnin' and I had trouble gettin' 'em into the gate at the start."

"How did you finally do it?"

"I used a spinnin' gate," he replied.

We had a script of the famous mint julep broadcast of the Derby, and read excerpts to him.

"They're off!" it read. "The Four Arcaros broke fast and three of 'em are away in front . . . Something is coming up fast on the rail . . . It is the two Atkinsons . . . They are trying to get through a hole . . . It is hard to get two thoroughbreds through one hole so they have pulled up to wait for more openings . . . Mehrtens is in a duel with two jockeys . . . One is Mehrtens . . . So is the other! . . . What a field! . . . The biggest since Balacava and Birth of a Nation! . . . Something is away out ahead, but is weaving badly! . . . No, my mistake! . . . The track is weaving badly . . . I can't identify the horses just now . . . They are using pinwheels instead of numbers on the saddlecloths today! . . . Guerin's right has slipped out of the stirrup . . . But his other six feet are okay! . . . I only see three Arcaros now . . . One of 'em must have been scratched . . . Now they are coming into the homestretch . . . I am not sure which homestretch . . . There are three homestretches and they're pretty blurred . . . I think the horses are using the one in the middle . . . The one with the direction signs."

"Do you remember that broadcast?" we asked Shudda Haddim. "Do I," he exclaimed. "That was the year of the dead heat between the three aardvarks, the purple platypus and a pair of corse and black anteaters," he sighed.

The Real Newsweek
Clear away everything breakable in the American home! . . . The fireside arguments got into full fury today with the play-by-play reports from the MacArthur hearings . . . They say that when General MacArthur passes Marshall and Bradley all three wear de-icing equipment . . . Funniest event of the spring: The news that a copy of its own report was stolen from the Kefauver Crime Committee and that the robbers didn't find out who did it. Must have a feeling the thief is not a good video prospect. That's like stealing the collar from the bloodhounds . . . Rudolph Halley was "on the stand" before Meet the Press the other day and never once answered a question yes or no.

Rita Hayworth now admits she seeks a separation from Prince Aly Kahn . . . Probably will allege intolerable prosperity and chronic affluence . . . Evidence may include charge that once in a fit of temper he threw a yacht, two palaces and a racing stable at her. "Stalin Statue Wins Stalin Prize"—headline . . . Surprise! . . . U.N. is giving a piano to President Truman. That's a strange way to answer an appeal for more help in Korea . . . Washington is to issue another new postage stamp. This one will commemorate the start of the ice-cream industry in America. Make mine vanilla!

If General MacArthur takes that job with Remington Rand, office equipment makers and specialists in typewriters, it will seem a great treat to him, after all the demonstrations, to be assigned to the "noiseless" department.

Pennsylvania Awards Scroll To State Mother Of 1951

Harrisburg, (AP)—Mrs. H. L. Mollenauer, of Eighty-Four, near Washington, Pa., yesterday was awarded a scroll as Pennsylvania's mother of 1951.

"I know you are qualified in every respect to represent Pennsylvania as its mother of the year," said Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, in making the presentation.

The 66-year-old mother of six children said the honor was "one of the biggest surprises of my life." "It makes me wonder what I am doing here," she added, modestly accepting the award.

The selection of Mrs. Mollenauer was made by a committee of six women, headed by Mrs. Harold Bodtke, Lansdowne, chairman named by Gov. John S. Fine.

Mrs. Bodtke said the western Pennsylvania woman was selected for her qualities "as a mother, participation in community activities, interest in international affairs and the success of her children."

On hand for the presentation at a luncheon in the State capitol building, were four of Mrs. Mollenauer's children and her husband.

Rotation Plan Gives Priority To Combat GI

Tokyo (AP) — The front line doughboy gets priority in the Army's rotation program for troops in Korea.

To qualify for the plan, a combat soldier needs six months of service. A man in a rear echelon post must have a full year.

The Army established the rotation plan for three main reasons:

One—To give the Army training program the benefit of combat experience of officers and enlisted men from Korea.

Two—To give as many as possible combat experience in Korea.

Three—To give relief to the men who have been fighting the Korean war longest.

"There are bound to be gripes," a personnel officer said.

"But on the whole, the plan is working well."

Army headquarters here emphasizes that six months of combat or a year in a rear echelon job does not guarantee that a man will be sent back to a stateside camp. That is simply the minimum requirement.

After that, a qualified replacement must be available for a soldier before he can leave. The Army insists that the combat effectiveness of a unit must not be reduced by rotation losses. The rotation program is also affected by combat losses. Every casualty a front-line unit suffers means one less man who can be rotated—at least until an additional replacement comes up.

The Army draws its "front line" mark at division level. Anyone serving in a higher unit—at corps or Army level—is considered rear echelon.

Meatcutters Stay Strike One Week

Washington, (AP) — The AFL Meatcutters tentatively agreed yesterday to postpone from May 6 to May 13 a threatened packing house strike so as to permit the new Wage Stabilization board to take up their claim for an 11-cent hourly wage hike.

Earl W. Jimerson, president of the union representing 120,000 of the 220,000 meat house employees, said union officials would confer with company officials in Chicago today to work out details of the extension.

Jimerson told a news conference the 11-cent increase has been held up because it exceeds the 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

The CIO Packinghouse Workers, representing another 100,000 employees, also must decide whether to agree to a postponement of strike action.

Mountainhome, another brother, George Brutzman and daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Heller, of East Stroudsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Heller and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Long, of Netcong, N. # C Of C Campaigners Challenged To Be Leaders, Not Leaners

'Cold Rush' Drive Off To Flying Start

Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce annual membership campaign moved out to a good start last night at a dinner meeting of division chairman and workers who heard Dan Casey, Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce, advise that it is "the leaners" who do all the complaining and "the leaders" who do all the work in behalf of their community.

Labeled the "Cold Rush campaign," the drive seeks a minimum of 300 new membership units and offers attractive awards for top producers.

The awards include two weeks, all expenses paid, in St. Petersburg, Fla.; four days in New York City, both for two persons and new hats for the first group of workers who produce three new membership units by Monday. The two trips are to be awarded on basis of production by May 14.

Last night George Graff and J. Albert Groner each received a new hat for producing three new membership units before the Monday deadline.

H. G. Sanborn Jr., general chairman of the campaign, presided at the dinner meeting.

He suggested to the working group that they have "a good package to sell. This chamber must keep pace with chambers in the area. Our area must keep pace, even though we have one of the best right now.

"You success in this effort is your chamber's success," Mr. Sanborn advised.

He introduced these division leaders: Lester Abelloff, Burton George, Leon Koster, Ted Henning, George Graff, Robert Irwin, Gilbert Smarz, Charles R. Bensinger, William H. Clark, Robert Minch, H. G. Heller.

Gerald P. O'Neill, president of the Chamber, told the group he had returned from a U. S. Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington, D. C., also attended by Frank S. LaBar and Dr. Joseph F. Noonan which further deepened his convictions that the work of local Chambers is of prime importance to every community.

Mr. Casey said "you can do anything if you want to do it."

"It is not the size of the town, it is the size of the men in it that makes it an outstanding community," he maintained.

The leaners are those who look to Harrisburg, Washington or offer their individualism to a bureaucratic group. Nobody has to put money in a Chamber of Commerce, all they have to do is be a leaner, he emphasized.

He recalled an election in which 60 per cent voted and 40 per cent did not. Since then there have been many complaints, many arguments and a confused situation has arisen, he pointed out. The 40 per cent carry the brunt of the blame for this situation, he said.

Warning that competition is strong between areas or regions, Mr. Casey said a Chamber of Commerce must operate on certain fundamentals. They are:

Recognize the need, adopt a constructive program which must not be "spread too thin," insure personal participation and establish a sound financial program.

There will be a report meeting of division leaders Monday noon.

Rustproof Pipes
Real Economy

Rust-resisting tubing and piping are available for water and heating systems. The increased cost of this material is usually offset by longer life and less clogging and scaling.

When contemplated modernization includes new heating and plumbing lines, the home owner should consider the advisability of using corrosion-resistant material. The character of the local water should also be known so as to determine its effect on plumbing and heating systems.

—By Bobby Westbrook

Since this had to be written before the band concert, I can't comment, except to say that if the performers in one of the major symphony orchestras got any more excited, they'd probably burst.

So this will have to be about golf—well, maybe the less said about that the better—but anyway at Glen Brook certainly looked the part, anyway, with all the bells with places for tees, golf balls, score pads, pencils, and probably compact.

Really were some very attractive outfits, to be sure—Flo Keiper's matching red dress and hat—and even red back for the golfing mitt.

Ann Swartley's matching shirt and jockey cap; Vi Jones' hand-knitted sweater and identically colored wool skirt; Peg Shull's leather-jerked sweater—Oh we could go on and on but anyway it was fun.

And there was no mistaking who was golfing and who was bridge playing. The card players were furred and hatted and really looked most handsome.

And adding spice to the whole thing was the fact that for once I was doing something that it wasn't a duty to do—very guilty feeling it was—but gay.

Art Class Visits Modern Art In Construction

More than thirty students of the Art department of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College Wednesday took a field trip to visit the modern homes at Spring Lake. Three Point Gardens, Franklin Hill.

Arranged by their teacher, Dr. Madelon Powers, the trip supplemented their study of modern art. The homes of the new ranch type with shield roofs to make use of solar heat, embody many modern architectural trends.

Extensive use of woods—red wood, and mahogany plywood both in exteriors and interiors, cornered fire-places, windows that open the house to the outdoors, and fluted glass were among the features noted by the students.

They also studied a hundred-year old house in the process of being remodeled with a blending of the old and new.

Driver Faces Charge After Car Accident

Brodheadsburg — A Bethlehem motorist, whose car plowed into the rear of another vehicle, causing the latter to bump into a truck on traffic-lined Route 115 north of Wind Gap on Sunday, has been charged with violating the motor vehicle code.

State police of the Brodheadsburg substation said yesterday that information was filed against Louis Lazarus, of 314 Laury St., Bethlehem, as a result of investigation following the Sunday mishap.

Lazarus is charged with following too closely under section 1010, subsection A, of the vehicle code, and information against him has been filed before Justice of the Peace George Kitchen, of Saylorsburg.

Lazarus was driving northward on Route 115 near Greenie's diner at approximately 3:40 p. m. Sunday in a line of traffic headed toward Saylorsburg when a truck operated by Alfred Lane, of 441 North St., Allentown, stopped because of traffic conditions.

Mrs. A. Martha Maquire, of 1345 Lindon St., Allentown, who was driving a pleasure car behind the Lane truck, stopped her vehicle, but Lazarus, third in line, failed to do likewise.

The Lazarus machine smashed into the rear of Mrs. Maquire's car with an impact which was great enough to throw her vehicle forward into the rear of the truck.

Damage to the truck tailgate was slight, but the front and rear bumpers, left headlight, grill and hood on the Maquire machine were smashed, as were the front fenders, grill, bumper and right headlight on the Lazarus car.

Police said estimate of damages was $330, including $175 for Mrs. Maquire's vehicle and $150 for the Bethlehem machine.

East Borough Police Warn Dog Owners

Owners of free-running dogs will be subject to prosecution in East Stroudsburg beginning immediately, officers of the borough announced yesterday.

Complaints are pouring in to authorities "nearly every hour," officials said. They are from gardeners of all descriptions from all parts of the borough.

Free running dogs must either be kept tied or under strict control of the owners. Prosecutions may be enforced regardless of whether a dog or pet is licensed.

Police advised that a license for a dog is no license for permitting the animal to run free to do damage to lawns, gardens or property generally.

They cited centers of major complaint as Day St., Lennox Ave., Roller, North Courtland and Green Sts.

Louis, Savold Agree To June Bout

By Murray Rose

New York (AP)—Joe Louis and Lee Savold have been fighting professionally for 17 years and somehow or other never got around to facing each other in the ring. Yesterday they agreed to remedy that and signed to meet in a 12-round bout in the Polo Grounds, June 13.

The survivor of this battle of graybeards will earn the right to walk into the chopping fists of heavyweight Ezzard Charles in a title bout in September. The champ has a couple of engagements of his own coming up.

It's very fortunate for Savold that he's just getting around to Louis now. The Bomber, who will be 37 in ten days, apparently has lost the power in his right hand wallop. Old Joe still has mayhem in his mind but his right hand no longer can carry out the commands of his brain.

He threw only duds in outpointing Omelio Agramonte in a ten rounder in Detroit Wednesday night. The former heavyweight king dropped the Cuban once for nine but that's way over par for Omelio who usually goes up and down like a yo-yo.

Fifth Triumph

That was Joe's fifth win on his latest comeback campaign. He's probably right for Savold, who just passed the 35-year-old mark, but hardly ready for Charles again.

Savold, a one-time bartender who's had more comebacks than an opera singer, hasn't done any regular fighting since he won British recognition as world heavyweight champion by stopping England's Bruce Woodcock in four rounds, June 6, 1950.

The Englewood, N. J., blonde has been nursing his piece of the title very carefully while manager Billy Daly shopped around for the right opponent for a big payday. They think they've got just what they wanted in Louis.

Savold still is a dangerous man with his left jab and left hook. He's scored 53 knockouts and been knocked out five times himself in 104 recorded fights. He's been beaten 29 times.

P-K, Mower Teams Win

Patterson-Kelley and Worthington Mower turned in victories in the Monroe County Softball League last night. Patterson-Kelley, defending champion, took the measure of Kulp's Foundry, 8-5 at Stroudsburg Playground, while Worthington Mower blanked Line Material, 8-0, on the East Stroudsburg Junior High school field.

Ken Petrie pitched Patterson-Kelley to victory, while Heid was charged with the loss for Kulp's Foundry. Dewey homered for the losing team.

Outstanding

Rev. Ernest Campbell pitched and batted Worthington Mower to victory over Line Material. The right handed hurler hurled five-hit ball, in addition to banging out two hits, one a home run. Decker also homered for the winning club.

There are no games scheduled in the circuit tonight.

Cubs Decision Braves, 9-3

Boston (AP)—Andy Pafko belted a grand-slam homer, a triple and a single last night with Sam Rice, who drove in all Boston runs with his sixth home run and a single.

Big Blow Pafko, who now has a total of 18 runs batted in, sewed up the game, in the sixth inning by clearing the left field wall after Surkont had filled the bases.

Surkont hit Bill Serena with a pitched ball, gave Frankie Baumholtz a single and then passed Sauer.

Unprecedented Wave Of Injuries Strike Key Figures Of Eleven Clubs In Major Leagues

New York (AP)—Joe DiMaggio's $100,000 crack in the neck is just one in an unprecedented wave of spring ailments that have benched nearly two dozen of baseball's highest paid stars.

The New York Yankees' veteran outfielder turned up with a stiff neck—a muscle spasm, the docs call it—two days ago. He's missed two games already, probably will miss a couple more.

He is number one on the armica and shin-splint list of the world champions, who have no less than six invalids under treatment. Cleveland, Brooklyn and the St. Louis Cardinals also have benched hard-hits.

Here's yesterday's hospital roll-call, which, put in shape, probably could mop up with any team in either of the major leagues:

Joe DiMaggio, Yankees—crack in the neck.
Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher—bruised elbow as result of being hit with a pitch last Tuesday.
Charlie Silvera, Yankees' number two catcher—bruised muscle in right thigh, suffered in home plate slide.

Mickey Mantle, Yankees' bally-hooded rookie outfielder—strained ligament in back of left hand.
Two base hit—Fish, Struck out by Boyer, St. Louis, 5 Wild pitch—Umpires—Washington.

Joe Page, Yankees pitcher—sore arm. Hasn't started yet.

Allie Reynolds, Yankees pitcher—sore arm, started and won yesterday.

Bob Lerner, Cleveland's $50,000-a-year right-hander and highest paid pitcher in baseball—pulled back muscle, while hurling against Red Sox Wednesday.

Luke Easter, Cleveland first baseman—wrenched knee.

Marty Marion, St. Louis Cardinals manager and shortstop—stricken with pneumonia while recovering from knee operation.

"Red" Schoendienst, Cardinals second baseman—eye injury, after being hit by own foul ball.

Wally Westlake, Pittsburgh outfielder—self-inflicted spike wound.

West Strum, New York Giants catcher—finger on right hand broken by foul tip. Out for ten days.

Roy Smalley, Chicago Cubs shortstop—broken ankle, out for six or seven weeks.

Sid Hudson, Washington pitcher—hip injury.

Tommy Brown, Brooklyn outfielder—out several days after colliding with outfield fence.

Billy Cox, Brooklyn third baseman—burned hand, book of matches exploded.

Pitchers Ery Fallica and Don Newcombe—arm ailments. Both returned to action this week but failed to finish games.

Bob Swift, Detroit catcher—appendectomy. Out two or three weeks.

George Kell, Detroit third baseman—broken finger. Just returned to lineup.

Jim Wilson, Boston Braves pitcher—sore arm. Out another week.

The only ones not worrying about it apparently are the Yankees. A shot of bad luck acts like a shot in the arm to Casey Stengel's boys, who rode out nearly 100 different injuries in 1949 to win the American league pennant.

East time this writer mentions East Stroudsburg or Stroudsburg High schools, he immediately thinks of the baseball game between the two schools which probably won't be played. According to the latest information to reach this column, they are just as close to reaching a date for the game as they were a week ago. Imagine a contest featuring Steele as pitcher and Aiden "Red" Fetherman, another outstanding baseball prospect. It certainly would be a crowd pleaser. It would mean a pitcher's battle between two close friends, but real rivals on the field of combat.

Bob Rice, the youngster who recently accidentally shot himself in the leg, is the same Bob Rice who has performed on the varsity and junior varsity basketball teams and on the football squad for the past two years. Rice is currently a patient at the General Hospital, but will be discharged probably on Saturday, despite the fact that a good-sized hole was torn in his leg, between the thigh and knee.

Speaking of High school baseball brings to mind the fact that major league scouts are beginning to take up the trail of the East Stroudsburg High school team. Ray Steele is the target of the scouts and the lanky right handed pitcher is giving the ivory hunters plenty at which to look. Cy Morgan, of the Phillies, and an unidentified scout of the St. Louis Browns were on hand to see East Stroudsburg play at Parkland last Tuesday.

Steele has hurled a total of 20 innings thus far this season, has registered 35 strikeouts, allowed five hits, walked nine batters and allowed three unearned runs—but has yet to register his first victory. The likeable kid battled to a 1-1 tie with Wilson Borough in the first game of the season, which was halted after eight innings because of darkness. He then hurled a two hitter against Parkland, only to lose in the bottom of the ninth, 2-1. Pitching like this only serves to emphasize the importance of good hitting.

MSS Teams Divide Pair Of Contests

Middle Smithfield — Middle Smithfield school took the measure of Portland in baseball yesterday, 5-1, but were forced to settle for a 23-23 tie in a Monroe County Elementary School Softball League contest with Clearview. The baseball contest was played at Portland, while the softball game was played here, on Middle Smithfield's home grounds.

The softball contest was halted after six innings to allow the children to return home on the school buses.

A total of 13 runs in the first inning enabled Middle Smithfield to take a commanding lead in the softball contest, but it was quickly cut down by a determined Clearview team. Dick Ace homered for his home team.

Middle Smithfield held the upper hand from the fourth inning on in the baseball contest yesterday, with Portland accounting for its only run in the third. Middle Smithfield tallied once in the second, and twice in each of the fourth and fifth frames.

East Stroudsburg's Little Baseball League will hold its second try out session of the week tonight when all boys between the ages of eight-and-12 years are urged to be present at Memorial Stadium at 6.

Brooklyn, (AP)—"Preacher" Roe shut out Cincinnati with six hits last night, 8-0, as Brooklyn snapped a three-game losing streak with an 11-hit barrage. It was the third straight win for the Dodger lefthander.

Carl Furillo and Billy Cox hit successive homers off reliever Jim Blake in the eighth inning while Roe mowed down the Reds. The Dodgers racked up Herm Wehmeier who beat them four times last season. It was his first defeat.

Shakeup Manager Chuck Dressen's shake-up of the batting order worked like a charm as the Brooks unloaded on Wehmeier in the three-run first inning.

Stroudsburg High Slated To Play At Northampton Today

Eastburg To Enjoy Day Of Inactivity

Baseball fans of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg will be without a home game today, in fact the latter will be without a game at all, as the Mountaineers play on the road and the Cavaliers enjoy a one-day vacation from the diamond wars.

Stroudsburg is scheduled to stack up against a highly regarded Northampton contingent, on the latter's home field, at 4 p. m. Jerry Stulgaitis Stroudsburg mentor, announced last night that Alden "Red" Fetherman would make his second starting appearance of the season on the mound today.

Layton DeHaven, apparently recovered from an injured finger, will open the game behind the bat, while Floyd Williams will be at first base, Jerry Fritz, second base; Karl Weingartner, shortstop, and Jack Newell, third base.

Bob "Will" Eilenberger, who is scheduled to oppose Palmerton on Tuesday, will be used in relief today, if needed.

Stroudsburg has dropped all three Lehigh Valley League games thus far, but did take the measure of Pen Argil, of the Lehigh-Northampton circuit, in a non-league affair.

The open date on the East Stroudsburg schedule comes as a welcome relief for the Cavaliers, who suffered a heart-breaking 2-1 defeat at the hands of Parkland on Tuesday. The charges of Coach Jack Kist have two defeats, one tie and no victories on their record at the present time.

Other Games
Bangor High will take part in a Lehigh-Northampton League contest at Nazareth today, also at 4 p. m. The charges of Dave Thomas are currently sporting a league record of two wins and no defeats and are hopeful of making it three straight today.

Dick Walk is expected to receive the starting assignment for the Bangor contingent.

Two games are also on tap in the Monroe County League today, both getting underway at 2 p. m.

Action in the northern division will send Barrett against Tobyhanna Township, at Pocono Pines, while Pocono and Polk will tangle in the southern section, at Kresgeville.

Meyer Ordered To Bed

New York (AP)—Billy Meyer, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was ordered to bed by his physician yesterday and Milton Stock, regularly the Pirate third base coach, directed the team in its game with the New York Giants last night.

Yanks Demonstrate Power In Crushing Browns

St. Louis (AP)—Led by rookie infielder Gil McDougald, who powered in six of the runs on a triple and a base-clearing home run, the New York Yankees tied two records and broke a third yesterday, scoring 11 times in a wild ninth inning rally to smother the St. Louis Browns, 17-3.

It was the fifth straight victory for the world champions and the first for sore-armed Allie Reynolds, who made his first start of the year and limited the Browns to five hits.

A small crowd of 1,612 saw the Bronx Bombers unload their vaunted power with a 17-hit attack that produced four home runs.

Young McDougald, thrown in at second base in place of Jerry Coleman, was the big noise in the Yankee attack, hitting a triple with two on and a homer with three on base in the wild final inning.

Record Equalled
The Yanks equalled the American League record mark for total bases in one inning, getting 24 on two singles, two doubles, two triples and three home runs. That figure had been set by the Browns on August 7, 1922, with the identical types and quantities of hits. The major league mark of 29 was set by the 1883 Chicago Cubs.

The 11 runs were the most ever tallied in the ninth inning of an American League contest, the previous high being ten by the 1901 Detroit and 1912 New York clubs.

The Bombers ran up 38 total bases for their biggest batting day in two years.

Dropo Leads Bosox To Victory

Detroit (AP)—Big Walt Dropo, benched for weak hitting for the last ten games, smashed in four runs with a double and single to spark the Boston Red Sox to a 6-1 win over the Detroit Tigers.

Dropo punched a two-run single in the eighth after Pitcher Virgil Trucks had deliberately walked Vern Stephens to load the bases.

The lanky first baseman, who batted .322 as a rookie last year and fell to .154 this season, also socked a double in the sixth to score two other runs.

Third Win
"Chuck Stobbs, six-foot-one left-hander, shackled the Tigers with six hits to win his third game against no defeats.

Teddy Gray, who hurled hitless ball until Bill Goodman singled to start the sixth, suffered his second loss without a win.

The 6,705 fans saw the game halted for 49 minutes because of darkness and rain in the eighth inning with the Red Sox at bat.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then, read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

East Borough Man Testifies Against Gold

Raymond H. Bensley, of 128 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, was among the witnesses who appeared before an Easton alderman this week in connection with the arraignment of Robert T. Gold, of Easton, on charges of fraudulent conversion and issuing worthless checks.

Bensley is reported to have held a $225 check given to him by Gold, operator of an Easton ticket agency, from last August 12 until mid-October in payment of a loan. He testified that when he tried to cash it, he found there were no funds to cover it.

The witness stated that Gold told him when he gave him the check that the money was supposed to be in bank in a few days to meet the check.

Joseph G. Hildenberger, of Bethlehem, attorney for Gold, charged that Bensley had participated in the crime of check-kiting, which the East Stroudsburg denied, stating he did not know there was no money in the bank to cover the check. Bensley added that no interest was to be paid on the loan as he was a personal friend of Gold and frequently bought baseball tickets from him.

Bensley is also reported to have pressed a charge of fraudulent conversion against Gold for $54 he said he paid him September 9 for baseball tickets.

Gold is held under heavy bail for grand jury action facing a large number of charges before three other Easton aldermen.

Tulsa Chorus To Present Concert Monday At College

By Ennis Davis
Waring School of Music

It's unusual . . . a choral conductor who can make "birdies" sing on a golf course just as well as he can in a superbly trained choral organization. And he has done both right here in our own community. What's more, he is going to do it again.

Back in 1944, Arthur Hestwood came east from Northwestern University. He had made up his mind that he wanted to sing with the Waring Pennsylvanians. When he got here and found that Shawnee Inn needed a substitute golf pro in a hurry he volunteered to teach a musical swing to golfers in-between his chores as a member of the tenor section of the Waring radio show.

Golfers in this area will remember him in Fred Waring's words "one sweet golfer."

Not only music and golf . . . romance as well. Late in the summer of 1944 Arthur and Elinore Hestwood were married in Shawnee Presbyterian church. Several days ago the officiating minister, Rev. Frank Blatt, said "Such a wonderful couple. I hear from them every year. Incidentally, in all my experience in performing wedding ceremonies I have never seen anything like the all-the-colors-of-the-rainbow tie worn by the best man. I should have had colored glasses." Who was the best man? You guessed it. Tom Waring.

Last year Arthur Hestwood came east again . . . and brought his University of Tulsa choral group. They sang a wonderful concert to a capacity audience in Shawnee.

They will present another evening of musical enjoyment in the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College Monday at 8 p. m.

Tickets are available at the door, at Kresge's Drug store, East Stroudsburg; Joe Barnes' counter at Wyckoff's and they may be obtained from all members of Rotary club.

Reforestation Work Finished On Four Kunkletown Farms

Kunkletown—Extensive reforestation projects on four Kunkletown RD farms have been completed, Atlee F. Rebert, U. S. Soil Conservation Service consultant for the Monroe county district, announced last night.

Rebert said a total of 2,600 Scotch pine trees, 1,700 red pine seedlings, 1,900 white pine, 1,200 Norway spruce, and 3,700 multiflora rose plants have been planted with the aid of a mechanical planter on the farms of Maurice Andrews, John McGarvey, George Kleintop and Dirk Wiersma.

The planter has been made available to the Monroe County Soil Conservation district through the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Game commission. The machine has been used for the past two weeks on both cooperative farm-game project tracts and on farms complying with provisions of the district's soil conservation program.

Rebert explained that the trees were planted on the steeper hill slopes, while the multiflora roses were placed in various places to provide wildlife food and to make living fences around pastures.

Arlington W. Martin, secretary of the soil district, said that results with the Game commission planting machine were gratifying in that eight to 10 more trees and shrubs were placed in the ground than could have been planted by hand during the same length of time.

Plans for a soil district dynamiting project on the Donald F. de Otte farm in Cherry Valley were also disclosed last night.

Lines have been surveyed through swampy and underbrushcovered waste land near Cherry creek for a 2,500 foot ditch.

Rebert indicated that as yet no date for the dynamiting has been set, but he stated that it will be done in the near future and that H. F. Weaver, ammunition expert from Easton, will be on the scene to supervise and to demonstrate the procedure when the job is started.

Blasting the open ditch will provide a means of drainage for the swampy area, making it suitable for pasture or other uses, the soil consultant asserted.

Fire Destroys Garage, Truck

Ackermanville — Sparks from a brush fire ignited a nearby garage and brought firemen of Bangor's Rescue Co. to the scene late Tuesday.

The flames gained such headway by the time the alarm was sounded that firemen were unable to save the six-month-old frame structure or a truck loaded with coal which had been parked inside.

Both the truck and the garage were the property of Carl Kessler.

Business News In Monroe Area

Hickory Valley Farm of Stroudsburg and Little Kunkle-town opened its newest outlet of Monroe County products earlier this week on Lancaster Ave., just west of Sprout road in Villanova, Pa.

One of several outlets, the establishment follows the very colorful Pennsylvania Dutch pattern in decorations which strike the attention of travelers and residents throughout Eastern Pennsylvania.

Like the others, this store is a treat for connoisseurs of fine cooking. It features plump smoked turkey, delicious baked hams, sausage and bacon. Hickory Valley specializes in the art of Pennsylvania Dutch curing and smoking of meats which are also attractively packaged for use as gifts.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, in a 36th annual report filed yesterday, deals with problems in a mobilized economy. The Federal Reserve Bank, serving banks in Monroe County, covers the entire year of 1950 and winds up with this conclusion:

"The vital issue confronting us is not whether more or less use is made of Government, but whether our economic system measures up to the tasks confronting it in a semi-war economy. Unless it does, we shall lose the fight; and unless we preserve our essential freedoms, we shall lose the things we are fighting for."

The report says 1950 was a year of decision. It was a year of sharp changes. During first part of the year there was a steady increase in demand and production. War in Korea touched off a wave of consumer and business spending which industry was unable to match with goods, and as a result prices soared.

The major problem of dealing with a partially mobilized economy resulted. The report says the amount of intervention needed depends in a large part on whether excess purchasing power is withdrawn off, thus maintaining conditions in which free market forces can function effectively to check inflation.

"The ideal solution of inflation threat created by the defense program and credit expansion is to adjust the supply of money to the supply of goods," the report says.

Pennsylvania Motor Federation said its 57 member AAA automobile clubs, including Monroe county, are opposing proposed changes in the present system for suspension and revocation of motor vehicle operators' licenses for violations of the motor vehicle code. Changes are contained in legislation introduced in the current session of legislature.

Opposition is based on fact no provisions are made for first offenders. First offenders who have licenses stamped with notice of first offense, a 30 to 90 day suspension would be applied for second offense and six months for third. Revocation would occur on the fourth and subsequent offenses.

PMF maintains great damage may be done on a first offense and that a comparatively minor infraction on fourth offense would result in revocation.

The Laurel Run hospital, Wilkes-Barre, under the direction of Dr. Nicholas Mauriello, Wilkes-Barre, will be dedicated on May 20 with surgeons in the East participating in the ceremonies.

The hospital is unique in that it treats solely with chronic illness and nervous diseases. It is completely equipped to deal with treatment of these two specific fields of medicine. Top specialists from Philadelphia and New York City have been invited to participate in the dedicatory program and inspection.

Bartonsville

Mrs. Robert Field

Monroe county friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, formerly of Old Orchard Trailer Park, have received word of the birth of a son, James Clay, to Mr. and Mrs. Harris. The Harris family now lives in Florida.

Mrs. Frank L. Feik and Mrs. Emma Doughty, of Trenton, N. J. spent several days at the Bartonsville hotel and called on Mr. and Mrs. John K. Connor. Mrs. Feik and Mrs. Doughty have rented a cottage at Forrest Lodge and intend to spend the summer months there. They are former summer residents of the Snyder'sville section.

Mrs. Sallie Frederick, of Easton, spent the weekend visiting local friends and relatives including: Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Detrick and family, of Snyder'sville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Singer, of East Stroudsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Steward Singer, of Stroudsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Singer, of Stroudsburg, Pa.

Marlene Spencer spent Friday night and Saturday with the Wilson Detricks.

Bobby Beeher, of Stroudsburg, spent the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beeher.

A-S Graydon Frailey, of Philadelphia, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verdon Frailey.

Mrs. Stella Detrick and Marlene Spencer visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Singer and Mrs. Lydia Hanna, of East Stroudsburg, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kammit Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kammit Sr., of Ozone Park, N. Y. were weekend guests at the Pokona Farm.

Billy and Pamela Cyphers, of Stokes Mill, spent Saturday with the Verdon Fraileys.

Greater Corn Acreage Asked

With the time for planting early corn close at hand, David H. Griffith, chairman of the Monroe County Production and Marketing administration, yesterday advised county farmers to step up corn production.

To increase acreage of the crop, he advised putting in an extra acre for every 10 acres planted last year. Where wheat and barley have been frozen, the land should be well suited for corn, he added.

He also advised the use of an adapted hybrid seed, efficient cultivation, application of fertilizers and control of pests.

Griffith cautioned that corn from other sections of the county may not be available this year. He said the increased number of livestock throughout the nation is expected to absorb any previously "extra" quantities produced.

The farmer's best move, he declared, is to plant a few extra acres this spring to avoid any disappointment in the fall.
